

Today's Columbus Dispatch Hot Issue poll asks Ohioans to vote on whether Ohio should be a "right to work" (for less) state. Tell other Ohioans that a "right to work" for less law, aimed at destroying unions, is simply an attempt by big business to continue the race to the bottom we have seen with NAFTA and other trade deals that have shipped jobs overseas and created the jobs crisis in Ohio.

Supporters of "right to work" (for less) laws come from the same corporate interests that spent more than $1 billion to elect politicians who share their anti-worker agenda, an agenda that hopes to cut wages, elimination benefits and weaken job security and workplace safety laws of all workers, union and non-union.

"Right to work" (for less) is not a job creator. Click here now to VOTE NO on the Dispatch and make sure to leave a comment, using the below talking points, to let other Ohioans know why "right to work" \(for less\) is wrong for Ohio.

Talking Points on "Right to Work" (for Less)

- This is simply an attempt by big business to continue the race to the bottom we have seen with NAFTA and other trade deals that have shipped jobs overseas and created the jobs crisis in Ohio.
- Supporters of right to work for less laws come from the same corporate interests that spent more than $1 billion to elect politicians who share their anti-worker agenda
- This anti-worker agenda hopes to cut wages, elimination benefits and weaken job security and workplace safety laws of all workers, union and non-union.
- While we suffer, the same politicians support tax breaks for the wealthy and for corporations and CEOs.
- Without the ability to join together, attacks on the middle class will go unanswered, and it will be harder for workers to fight for better wages and benefits, job security, and safer work places.

Tim Burga
Ohio AFL-CIO President
